

Thank you!

Well this moto site has been up for just over a year and I hope it has helped you find some great riding areas that suit your style of riding. We started this site because when we started riding, there were very few sites with updated directions or trail maps to riding areas within BC. It has come a long way since then and we are constantly trying to update it with new and better information and maps.

We have had a huge number of hits over the past few months, which means that the sport of dirt biking is getting more and more popular. It seems there are more enthusiasts just like us who want to get out and explore all the amazing places BC has to offer.

If you have checked out all the pages, you will notice that there is a lot on proper trail etiquette. The reason for all of this is that I have seen too many articles by people who don't like dirt bikes and want to see motorized areas shut down. I also see a few riders ruining it for everyone by their renegade riding style. It is not up to me to govern how you ride, but it is important to note that all these closed-minded people need only one reason to preach to their local paper or government, which leads to an article in the paper. Don't give them fuel for their fight. If you come into contact with these people wish them a happy day and move on. You are not going to change their mind so don't waste your energy. Instead of stooping down to their level with name calling and generalizing, just continue to ride properly and promote that to your friends. If we don't give these groups fuel then they have no words to fight with.

I hope you have a great summer out riding and please if you have any comments, corrections or things you would like to see, please let us know.

Cheers,
